

English

The B.A. in English prepares students to be a part of an increasingly diverse population of critically trained readers and writers to be leaders in both the business and academic worlds. As the core of a liberal arts education, the study of language and literature fosters critical thinking, free inquiry, creativity, and clear and candid communication. In addition to its primary benefits to the life of the mind, the English major offers practical preparation for professional careers in teaching, professional writing, law, medicine, business, editing, religious affairs, the nonprofit sector, and all levels of government service. The study of literature includes contemporary texts as well as all the historical periods of British and American literature. The study of writing allows students not only to work in the familiar genres of poetry, fiction, drama, and the essay, but also to study the editorial and publishing process. Courses in the English major contribute to the student's understanding of human culture and of the relationship between literary texts and other bodies of human knowledge such as philosophy, history, religion, psychology, classics, and modern languages. The Department of English offers two areas of specialization within the major: Liberal Arts and Writing.

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach English in secondary education need to contact an advisor in this department to plan course work that will satisfy degree and teacher certification requirements. A degree in this major is required for participation in teacher education certification options in English.

Program Requirements

In addition to the university's general requirements, students seeking the B.A. in English must meet the requirements listed below.

Students should consult their academic advisors for courses which may satisfy both the General Education requirements and common prerequisites. A minimum grade of "C" is required in common prerequisites and major courses.

English Liberal Arts Specialization

The Liberal Arts Specialization prepares students for graduate-level work in English; provides students with valuable pre-law, pre-medical, and other pre-professional training; and gives students solid preparation for careers in such areas as business, communications, or government service.

General Education

In addition to the General Education requirements listed on this page, students must satisfy all additional University requirements, including the Gordon Rule, multicultural, and foreign language requirements. With appropriate planning and coordination with an academic advisor, students may satisfy some of the general University requirements through the General Education curriculum. For a complete listing of general degree requirements, refer to the "University Requirements" (<http://catalog.uwf.edu/undergraduate/universityrequirements>) section of this catalog.

English Writing Specialization

The English Writing specialization offers students experience in writing beyond that gained in the core courses in literature. Students who choose to develop their creative writing skills can take courses in poetry, short fiction, and creative nonfiction. The department publishes two literature magazines: Panhandler, which features creative work from professional writers throughout the country, and The Troubadour, a poetry and short fiction magazine written and edited entirely by students. Students who choose to develop their writing and editing skills can gain the experience needed for jobs in the publishing industry or in writing-intensive careers in business or government. English Writing specialization students may also gain journalistic experience by writing for The Voyager, the campus newspaper. Internships on campus or in the community offer additional preparation for careers in writing or editing.

Public, Technical, and Workplace Writing Certificate

In the Public, Technical, and Workplace Writing Certificate Program, students gain an intensive experience in communication for professional success. The certificate will provide an opportunity for students from across the University to gain fundamental knowledge regarding 21st century skills in the production of public, technical, and digital texts. Students will write and analyze a range of genres from workplace, public, and technical environments. Students will also finish the program with a portfolio of work that they can deliver to prospective employers. Employers in a variety of settings look for students with strong writing skills applicable for the professional environment. This certificate will give our students the background in writing needed to be competitive in today's workplace.

In order to graduate with the Certificate, students must meet the following requirements:

- A grade of C- or better is required in all courses for the Certificate
- Students must complete an independent e-portfolio that is reviewed and approved by program faculty. Students must apply to have the portfolio reviewed no later than the end of drop/add week of their graduating semester. Students who plan to graduate in the summer must apply to have the portfolio reviewed by Week 10 of the spring semester.

Grade of C- or better from LIN 3673 or LIN 3742 OR one semester experience in UWF's Writing Lab OR a score of 75 or better (taken within the last 2 years) on the UWF Writing Lab's Diagnostic Test
