ANT: Anthropology Courses

Courses

ANT 1001 Anthropology as a Profession

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1 sh (may be repeated for up to 3 sh of credit)

This course serves as a one-credit introduction to the field of anthropology, the skills and training anthropologists typically receive, and the kinds of employment opportunities anthropologists are well-suited to fill.

ANT 1138 Introduction to Maritime Studies

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Basic introduction to maritime studies designed to familiarize students with the dynamic cultural and natural resources of the maritime environment. Students will gain knowledge and understanding of maritime environments.

ANT 2000 Introduction to Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

In this course, students will learn the foundations of anthropology as the study of human variation in its biological, social, and cultural dimensions. Students will learn about anthropological concepts, principles, and methodologies to understand and explore past and present human behavior. They will apply the anthropological approach to analyze issues pertaining to past and contemporary cultures, and develop intellectual skills and habits to understand behavioral, social and cultural issues from multiple disciplinary perspectives. Meets General Education requirement in Social Sciences.

ANT 2000H Honors Introduction to Anthropology

Academic Engagement, Department of Honors Program

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

In this course, students will learn the foundations of anthropology as the study of human variation in its biological, social, and cultural dimensions. Students will learn about anthropological concepts, principles, and methodologies to understand and explore past and present human behavior. They will apply the anthropological approach to analyze issues pertaining to past and contemporary cultures, and develop intellectual skills and habits to understand behavioral, social and cultural issues from multiple disciplinary perspectives. This course meets the Kugelman Honors program social sciences requirement. Meets General Education requirement in Social Sciences.

ANT 2100 Introduction to Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Basic introduction to archaeology; includes fundamental principles, field and laboratory methods, theories construction, special sites and conditions, and ethics. Information from all over the world is used. Field trips to local archeological sites are usually included. Meets General Education requirement in Social Sciences.

ANT 2301 Human Sexuality and Culture

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

This course examines human sexuality from an anthropological perspective, which focuses on the diversity of experiences, beliefs and practices of sexuality across cultures and over time, including our evolutionary history. Using a critical lens, this course addresses cultural and biological dimensions of sex, gender, and sexuality, and engages with issues of inclusivity, safety, and sexual and reproductive health.

ANT 2400 Current Cultural Issues

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Deals with the problems that confront American culture and society. Involves critical, analytical and objective thinking so that our own culture and values can be viewed more objectively and other cultures can be better understood and respected. An important element is to provide an understanding of the role of the individual in the continuation or amelioration of issues that afflict American society.

ANT 2511 Biological Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Human evolution and variation with emphasis on principles of evolution, primate biology, fossil records, variability in living populations, and the biological foundations of human culture capacities. Meets General Education requirement in Natural Sciences.

ANT 2511L Biological Anthropology Lab

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Lab corresponding with ANT 2511.

ANT 2905 Directed Study

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-12 sh (may be repeated indefinitely for credit)

ANT 3101 Principles of Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Detailed explanation of the principles and methodology of current archaeology in U.S.; includes a brief history and theoretical orientation development of American archaeology.

ANT 3137 Shipwreck Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Introductory course in Underwater Archaeology with an emphasis on American Maritime History and New World Archaeology as they relate to Pensacola's maritime heritage. The format centers on assigned readings and classroom meetings with lectures, discussions, educational slides and videos, and workshops. An attempt is made to incorporate field activities on at least one occasion.

ANT 3141 Origins of Civilization

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Cultural processes leading toward civilization and theories explaining the emergence of civilization. Comparison of the early civilizations of Mesopotamia, Egypt, India, China, Mesoamerica, and Peru.

ANT 3153 North American Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Overview of archaeology of North America. Emphasis on patterns of development of regional cultures based on the archaeological record. Open to students in all majors.

ANT 3158 Florida Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Archaeology of Florida with emphasis on general patterns of development of Florida Indians. Field trips to area archaeological sites.

ANT 3212 Peoples and Cultures of the World

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Culture areas of the world and frameworks for cultural comparison. Detailed study of representative peoples around the world gives emphasis to non-Western societies and the reporting tool of ethnography.

ANT 3241 Anthropology of Religion

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Connections of religion with the social organization, behavioral systems, and technology of traditional peoples outside the world of Western monotheism. Emphasis on animistic symbolism, shamanism, traditional metaphors for deities, and prehistoric, historic, or ethnographic accounts of ritual systems.

ANT 3311 Indians of the Southeast: An Anthropological Perspective

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Southeastern Indians is a survey course of the Native American groups in the Southeastern U. S. and their culture. It begins with an overview of prehistory and continues into the early 19th century. Examines such key areas as sociocultural archaeology, archaeology, biological archaeology, and history. Credit may not be received in both ANT 3311 and ANT 3317.

ANT 3312 North American Indians

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Past and present life styles of the diverse Native American cultures north of Mexico; discussion of the major culture areas with emphasis upon Indians of the Southeastern United States. Meets Multicultural Requirement.

ANT 3352 African Cultures

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

An introduction to African culture and society. Examination and analysis of the social foundations, beliefs, practices, and institutions that make up the rich and unique cultural values of the African people. The aim is to broaden students' awareness of the beliefs, practices, and institutions that make up the cultural values of the African people. Attention will be given to pre-colonial years with an overview of the post-colonial era.

ANT 3363 Japanese Culture

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Basic introduction to the distinctive cultural heritage of the Japanese people. A brief overview of key historical events, fundamental philosophical tenets and basic religious beliefs form the background for exploring the prevalent customs, lifestyles and business practices in Japan today.

ANT 3520 Forensic Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Introduces students to the basic principles of forensic anthropology, and to current methods of determining personal identity, manner and cause of death, elapsed time since death, and other relevant information from skeletonized remains.

ANT 3610 Language and Culture

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Introduction to linguistic principles as they relate to the study of culture. Discussion of origins and nature of language. Direct applications of linguistic concepts in anthropological structure analyses and ethnography. Credit may not be received in both ANT 3610 and ANT 3620.

ANT 3905 Directed Study

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-12 sh (may be repeated indefinitely for credit)

ANT 4006 Anthropology of Human Rights

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Examines contemporary debates, topics, and issues in human rights cross-culturally, and focuses on the history of the concept of human rights, universalism vs. particularism, gender, race, religion, social justice movements, and current human rights conventions. Offered concurrently with ANG 5453; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT: Anthropology Courses

ANT 4025 Ritual Use of Human Remains

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Ritual Use of Human Remains explores human mortuary practices and other ritual uses of bones, bodies, and body parts across the world and through time. Utilizing archaeological and ethnographic data from the New World (North America, South America, Mesoamerica, and the Caribbean), Old World (Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Near East), and Polynesia, the course introduces students to a diversity of ritual practices and outlines the theoretical concepts underlying their interpretation. Course material will be presented in lecture format, supplemented by in-class discussions and team-based activities. Grades are based on two (2) non-cumulative exams, two (2) inclass essays, one (1) research paper, and in-class participation. One textbook is required, and multiple non-textbook required readings are provided on the course website. Offered concurrently with ANG 5191, Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4034 History of Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Development of anthropology with emphasis on the emergence of modern American discipline; detailed treatment of the formation of evolutionary, historical, functional and ecological orientations of the discipline.

ANT 4115 Method and Theory in Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

History and evolution of archaeological methods and theory in the United States. Major schools of thought and currently developing ideas are compared and contrasted: sampling theory, site formation, geosciences. Permission is required.

ANT 4121 Combined Archaeological Field Methods

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-9 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Onsite training in maritime and terrestrial archaeology (6 weeks each). Structured hands on experience including training in both field and laboratory methods. Emphasized methods include site control grids, setting up excavation units, basic excavation techniques, use of hand tools, identification of ship structure and features, screening techniques, field documentation, principles and procedures. A diving certificate from a nationally recognized program and permission is required. Material and Supply Fee will be assessed.

ANT 4172 Historical Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Principles and methodology of historical archaeology; includes history of this specialty and theoretical development. Course is detailed and is required for Historical Archaeology graduate students prior to taking ANG 5172. Field trips to local historical archaeology sites and museums and permission is required.

ANT 4180L Laboratory Methods in Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: (ANT 2000 AND ANT 3101) OR ANT 4824

Introduction to the basic methods of processing, classifying, coding and analysis or archaeological material. Hands-on laboratory methods are taught utilizing collections from recent field school and project excavations. These materials may include European, Mexican, and Native American ceramics, glass, metal, lithics, masonry, plants, and faunal remains.

ANT 4182C Conservation of Archaeological Materials

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

4 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Techniques of stabilizing and preserving deteriorated or corroded artifacts from archaeological sites. Hands on conservation techniques are taught in seminar / laboratory using chemicals and treatment procedures.

ANT 4184 Mortuary Anthropology: Excavation, Analysis, and Theory

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Mortuary Anthropology: Excavation, Analysis, and Theory teaches how to investigate, excavate, and understand data derived from historic and prehistoric cemeteries and mortuary contexts. The course overviews and critiques archaeological theory and methods used in mortuary analysis. Students will engage with datasets drawn from historic and ancient archaeological sites to learn how to organize and analyze mortuary and population data grounded in anthropological theory. The course will offer skills required of practicing archaeologists and bioarchaeologists as they attempt to answer cultural questions about the past. Offered concurrently with graduate section, ANG 5193, Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4190 Historic Preservation in Archaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Includes a detailed review of basic historic preservation laws and regulations, the historic preservation system, and the articulation of archaeological resources in that system. Topics include historic preservation law, historic preservation system, archaeological resource management, and the contributions to the discipline of anthropology. Permission is required.

ANT 4191C Anthropological Data Analysis

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Focuses on the methods and techniques of analysis of anthropological data which is an essential step in the interpreting of data. Analytical techniques applied to anthropological data include construction and use of spreadsheets, digital image development and manipulation, map making and presenting data, and database construction, management, and querying. Geographic Information Systems (GIS) will also be introduced. A variety of applications for the personal computer are used to perform these analyses.

ANT 4247 Anthropology of the Bible

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Social and cultural interpretation of the scriptures pertinent to Hebrew / Aramaic and Eastern Mediterranean cultures from the 2nd century BCE through the 4th century CE. Students will read the assigned texts from the Torah, the Hebrew Bible generally, the Dead Sea Scrolls, the Christian canon, and the scriptures of the Naj Hammadi library. Offered concurrently with ANG 5247; graduate students will be assigned additional work. Credit may not be received in both ANT 4247 and ANT 4174.

ANT 4302 Global Gender Issues

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Global Gender Issues examines issues of sex, gender, and sexuality using cross-cultural examples and the holistic perspective that is a hallmark of anthropology. We will focus on issues of power, equity, and intersectionality, and will read ethnographic works that richly illustrate the complex and contingent experiences of everyday (gendered) life around the world. Offered concurrently with ANG 5302. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4322 Mesoamerican Cultural Traditions

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Students will explore important themes of Mesoamerican cultural tradition. Includes examination of both ancient and contemporary Native American culture in Mexico and Guatemala. Students will learn about continuities between ancient and contemporary Mesoamerican culture, including the ways in which indigenous cultural traditions are maintained in the face of persistent acculturative pressure, as well as about ways in which Native American cultural traditions in the region in other ways have been shaped and modified by the 500 year history since the Spanish Conquest. Offered concurrently with ANG 5322; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4403 Environmental Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Environmental Anthropology critically examines the diversity of humannature relationships - past, present, and emergent. The course explores environmental and ecological concepts and questions from an anthropological perspective, and analyzes the growing global discourse surrounding questions of climate change, pollution, species and habitat loss, and conservation. Readings and assignments highlight the ways that people living in different cultural and ecological contexts often conceive of, and experience, the natural world in different ways. Offered concurrently with ANG 5022. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4451 Race, Ethnicity, and Culture

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Explores race and ethnicity and their relationship to culture in a cross-cultural, anthropological perspective. Will consider cultural constructions of race and ethnicity in the United States, in other areas of the Americas, and other areas of the world. Offered concurrently with ANG 5451; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4473 Anthropology of Globalization

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Critically analyzes globalization and the global processes and connections operating in the world today. Examines the complex interactions of people, ideas, economic systems, technologies, commodities, media and other forms that encompass globalization in the post-Cold War era. Offered concurrently with ANG 5472; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4516 Modern Human Physical Variation

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

This course provides an evolutionary perspective on biological variation in modern humans, a cultural context for how flawed interpretations of human variation have been historically misused, and a framework for learning from and rectifying the mistakes of the past. Offered concurrently with ANG 5516 (Modern Human Physical Variation); graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4523 Field Methods in Forensic Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

0-3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Forensic Field Recovery provides on-site training in forensic field methods for the location, documentation, and recovery of human skeletal remains from surface and buried contexts. Relevant to students with planned careers in forensic anthropology, bioarchaeology, law enforcement, crime scene recovery, and other medicolegal fields, the course includes the use of surveying equipment and hand excavation tools. Permission is required. Offered concurrently with ANG 5821L. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4525 Human Osteology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

4 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 2511 Co-requisite: ANT 4525L

Detailed examination of human skeletal and dental anatomy, structure, and function. Techniques of osteological analysis, including determination of age, sex, stature, ancestry, and pathology. Offered concurrently with ANG 5520; graduate students will be assigned additional work. Credit may not be received in both ANT 4525 and ANT 4466

ANT 4525L Human Osteology Lab

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

0 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Co-requisite: ANT 4525

Corresponding lab for Human Osteology.

ANT: Anthropology Courses

5

ANT 4526C Advanced Methods in Biological Anthropology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 4525

Advanced Methods in Biological Anthropology builds on the foundation of knowledge formed in "Human Osteology" (ANT 4525) with a practical, methodological focus on the biology, analysis, and interpretation of human skeletal and dental remains. The class provides an in-depth exploration of the methods fundamental to bioarchaeological and forensic anthropological analysis, utilizing both intensive literature review and hands-on laboratory practice. In addition to becoming proficient skeletal analysts, students will develop the skills to critically evaluate the biological anthropology literature. As this is an extremely rigorous laboratory-based course, cross-listed with a graduate section, undergraduate enrollment is limited to students who have already earned an A- or better in "Human Osteology." Offered concurrently with ANG 5526C. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4532 Disease and Culture

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Through lecture and discussion of readings we will explore the relationships between disease and culture. Main topics will include the basics of disease epidemiology in humans, human bio-cultural adaptations to disease, and the effects and influences of disease on human culture and society. Offered concurrently with ANG 5408; graduate students will be assigned additional work. Credit may not be received in both ANT 4532 and ANT 4408.

ANT 4536 Bioarchaeology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

This course will highlight a field that is at the intersection of archaeology and biological anthropology – bioarchaeology. Focus will be placed on the biocultural perspective that emphasizes the biological, social, and environmental contexts in which past people lived. Past life-ways will be understood through careful reading of human skeletal remains to understand individual and population histories. Major components of the course will include human osteology, mortuary analysis, demography, paleopathology, paleonutrition, migration, and kinship analysis. Discussion will also engage with the social and theoretical aspects of the meaning of human skeletal remains in a variety of cultural and archaeological contexts. Offered concurrently with ANG 5536; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4550 Primatology

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Overview of the taxonomy, evolutionary history, ecology, and behavior of non-human primates, and the theoretical basis and methodology of primates studies. Offered concurrently with ANG 5550; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4586 Human Origins

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 2511/L

Overview of the fossil evidence for human evolution, and hominid behavioral reconstruction using ethnographic and primate models. Offered concurrently with ANG 5514; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4803 Ethnographic Research Methods

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3212

This course serves as an opportunity for students to conduct original research, and to put anthropological theory and method into practice for insight into a small part of the human experience. We will conduct a semester-long research project, incorporating several of the methods anthropologists use "in the field" to better understand a cultural group: behavioral observation, interviews and surveys. From the resulting data, we will work together to analyze and interpret it, culminating in an original written ethnography. Offered concurrently with ANG 5803; graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4820 Archaeological Field Survey

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 2000

Instruction in archaeological field survey techniques for the identification, location, and documentation of both terrestrial and submerged cultural resources. Subjects include research methodologies, cultural resource management process and regulations, ethical concerns relating to archaeological sites, remote sensing methodologies, magnetometer and sonar applications in maritime archaeology, collection of archaeological and environmental data, use of mapping and surveying equipment, field survey strategies and research design, fundamentals of data collection and recording, FMSF survey forms, report writing and production. Offered concurrently with ANT 5001. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.Permission is required.

ANT 4824 Terrestrial Archaeological Field Methods

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-9 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Onsite training in terrestrial field methods includes use of hand tools, surveying equipment, and some power equipment. Emphasized in the field are excavation techniques in a variety of situations, field scale drawings, and documentation. Field lab methods are often included. Permission is required. Material and Supply Fee will be assessed.

ANT 4835 Maritime Archaeological Field Methods

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-9 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Prerequisite: ANT 3101

Onsite training in maritime archaeology. Structured hands on experience including training in both field and laboratory methods. Emphasized methods include site control grids, setting up excavation units, basic excavation techniques, use of hand tools, identification of ship structure and features, screening techniques, field documentation, principles and use of field instruments, and field conservation procedures. A diving certificate from a nationally recognized program and permission is required. Credit may not be earned in both ANT 4135 and ANT 4835. Material and Supply Fee will be assessed.

ANT 4836 Scientific and Research Diving

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

The Scientific Diving course would involve interdisciplinary instruction in both classroom and the field designed to give students an understanding on how to conduct scientific research safely in the underwater environment. Specific topics are based on the NOAA Diving Manual, and will include the history of scientific diving, diving physiology, approaches to scientific/research diving, background on different scientific diving methodologies, dive planning for scientific research, scientific diving in different environments, applications for underwater research, survey methods, data retrieval, site selection, underwater navigation, search and recovery techniques, instrument implementation, diving accident management and emergency procedures. Offered concurrently with ANG 5836. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4853C Geographic Information Systems in Anthropology Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may not be repeated for credit)

Application of Geographical Information Systems technology in anthropology, archaeology and cultural resource management. Offered concurrently with ANG 5181. Graduate students will be assigned additional work.

ANT 4905 Directed Study

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-12 sh (may be repeated indefinitely for credit)

ANT 4944 Anthropology Internship

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

1-3 sh (may be repeated for up to 6 sh of credit) Prerequisite: ANT 4190 AND ANT 4824

Placement in community agency or other social or organizational setting. Supervision by faculty and agency. Student participates in full range of services available in the setting. An internship paper is required. A maximum of 6 sh may be applied to the major requirements. Permission is required.

ANT 4945 Anthropology Capstone

Col of Arts, Soc Sci and Human, Department of Anthropology

3 sh (may be repeated for up to 6 sh of credit)

This course is designed to bring together an interplay of ideas gained through the courses required for the anthropology major. Students will debate, discuss, and critically assess the different perspectives and approaches within the discipline to current issues and problems related to the chosen topic. This course should be taken near the end of students' program.
